Horseback riding can be classified as a RUGGED & RISK ADVENTURE RECREATIONAL SPORTS ACTIVITY And there are numerous obvious and non-obvious inherent risks always present in such an activity despite all safety precautions.

Horses are on average 2 to 10 times larger 10 to 40 times more powerful, and 3 to 4 times faster than a human. If a rider falls from a horse to the ground, it will generally be a distance from 3 1/2 to 5 1/2 feet and the impact may result in injury to the rider. If a horse becomes frightened or provoked it may divert and act according to its natural survival instincts. Which may include but are not limited to stopping short, changing direction or speed at will, shifting a sweet bucking rearing, kicking, biting or running from danger.

We at Crindle Stables try to minimise all risks however it must be recognised that horses can be unpredictable and do have a mind of their own.

Elements along the beaches, trails and road can potentially scare a horse causing it to fall or react in some potential hazardous way some examples: include, bicycles, vehicles, Thunder, lightning, rain, wind, water, wild and domestic animals, insects, and a regular footing on an out of doors groomed or while Taurean. These are subject to constant changes in condition according to weather, temperature, and natural and man-made landscapes. Wearing a helmet whilst riding, being cautious and aware of your surroundings at all times are some basic precautions and certain risks of injuries cannot be avoided if they are not followed.
